Dear Virginia Frances Schwartz,

I loved Send One Angel Down. I liked the book because I love to learn about slavery. I started to read the book in August. I told my mom about the book and it made her want to read it too. I liked the part when the Master Turner's daughter's sitter let Eliza secretly come get some food so she wouldn't starve. Send One Angel Down reminded me of how good family is but like when Abram's mother died it also reminded me of how sad it is to lose a family member, but again it made me think that they are on their way to a better place. Your book made me very emotional when they got whipped. When they got sold at auctions, when they were forced to breed, and when the seven babies died in the wooden cradle by the cotton fields. When my emotions were happy they were when Eliza got set free, and when Charity had a good pregnancy and didn't die. I hope you will write more inspiring books like Send One Angel Down. I think you are an awesome writer because of the way you explained everything in order. I love your book!

Sincerely,
Dashia Nuzum
